

Reflect on your own experiences with children, families, and colleagues. If you are an supervisor, administrator, or adult educator, how might you use these questions and activities to help other adults reflect on their experiences?

Seek multiple perspectives

When you find yourself puzzled by a child's behavior, to whom do you talk about it?

How might different cultural or family perspectives be shaping behaviors and potential conflicts?

What professional resources might inform your understanding?

Try This!

Recall a child's behavior that you didn't understand.
Describe the behavior, and yours and others' responses to it.

How did your perspectives differ?

How did you handle your differences of opinion?

How did you reach agreement on how to approach the child's behavior?
